

Fire Safety Course

Fire Safety Course Overview

Under The Regulatory Reform (Fire Safety) Order 2005 it is a requirement that all public buildings undertake a fire risk assessment to identify the hazards associated with fire safety and put into place certain control measures in an attempt to counteract these hazards.

It is also a requirement under this legislation that all employees are given information and training in basic fire safety associated with the company, premises and job role they undertake and their responsibilities with regard fire safety.

The Fire Safety Course is fully customisable and helps organisations to meet their legal responsibilities to give staff basic fire safety training.
